

FIRE

Yesterday, there was a fire in the upstairs bathroom.

Unable to put it out with our fire extinguisher, we shut the bathroom door to contain it.

Then we stuffed towels and bed sheets along the base of the door to stop the smoke and flames from spreading.

But despite all our efforts, the fire would not be confined.

It burst through the bathroom window and got out,
down the fire escape.